Clarity4D

Sellafield Ltd

Success stories:

Sellafield harness their expertise, bringing together world-class skills and innovative technology to solve complex nuclear, infrastructure, and engineering challenges. They deliver against national safety, security and energy needs. In operating, developing, and decommissioning the Sellafield site, they are also delivering the largest environmental restoration project in Europe.

Sellafield was initially looking for a tool to help with personal and team development and to enhance communication across the business. After comparing the various tools available on the market, they approached Clarity4D and never looked back!

> “Clarity4D’s personality profiling tools were perfectly matched to our needs. We have since had lots of extremely positive feedback from individuals and teams - our employees love how easy the Clarity4D profile is to use and how it has helped them interact with other colour preferences. As a result, teamwork and communication have significantly improved. Understanding how the communication styles of each colour preference may come across, particularly on a virtual platform, has been invaluable in bringing teams together and aligning the energies of individual team members.”

I’d definitely recommend Clarity4D to others!
